About

The Acacia Strain is a deathcore band from Chicopee, Massachusetts, born in the year 2001. Since its formation, the band has gone through numerous members, resulting in the vocalist Vincent Bennet being the only original member left.

The band's music has been primarily described as deathcore, and has been noted to include heavy influences from metalcore, sludge, doom metal and death metal along with some punk rock aesthetic and sensibilities.

Currently lauded as one of the bands that lead the way in terms of the most brutal and heavy deathcore on the market, their signature sound is recognizable across all their releases, and the band has put out consistent albums since their inception.

"I wish a heaven on earth for my enemies so that hell will hurt so much more.
never dream because I'm never asleep.
I dove headfirst in the water and I swam too fucking deep."

I Breathed In the Smoke Deeply It Tastes Like Death and I Smiled (lyrics)
